Re: Comment Period of Conflict of Interest Rule and Related Exemptions

To the Members of the Committee :

I would like to express my extreme displeasure with this proposal. I find the proposal lacking any clear direction in benefiting the consumer. Instead I find it grasping at straws in a vain attempt to support its own self worth. Nothing in this proposal has the consumers' best interest at heart. The goal of this movement seems to be creating more chaos and eliminating solid productive solutions for customers that are in need, in such a volatile period.

This is just the most resent assault, in an endless litany of governmental influence in the open market.

Thank you for your time, and I hope that this is last that I hear of this awful idea.
